The following fraternal address has been issued by Department Commander Stewart to the post commanders. It is a good address and has the right ring in it. If the enthusiasm is not already sufficiently aroused this ought to serve the purpose of arousing it to the required pitch:

We are now in the last quarter of 1889. At the beginning of the year I asked that special effort be made to reach 50,000 membership in the Department of Pennsylvania by January, 1890, and believed it possible to reach that number. We have gained largely, and in many posts splendid work has been done in recruiting. We have for very many years been the strongest Department in the G. A. R. Our position has been a matter of pride and honor to every comrade. With a membership of 50,000 our position is secure for all time. No other Department can surpass us. To those who have been laboring earnestly to increase our membership I desire to return my thanks. To those who have not put forth proper energy in recruiting I make an appeal at this time, while yet one quarter remains in which to do this work. An increase of 10 per cent in each post will accomplish the desired end. See if you have done this. If not please take the necessary steps at once to interest the com-rades. Appoint a good recruiting committee, or what is better, give each comrade a blank application and ask him to bring in a recruit before January 1. If you have gained the re-quired 10 per cent continue the work and help Appoint a competent delinquent committee to Appoint a competent delinquent committee to give attention to the reinstatement of dropped or suspended members.

It would be a glorious record to be able to report to the Department Encampment in February next 600 posts and 50,000 men, and to report also that not one post in the department shows a loss for 1889.

Every post commander can share in the glory of such an achievement. Activity and carnestness on the part of a commander of a post will encourage the comrades. He should lead in the work. Call attention to recruiting every meeting night. The department officers have worked hard to advance the department. I personally have traveled over 18,600 miles thus far in this work, but we are powerless unless our efforts are supplemented by yours. Help us to reach the point for which we are striving. Do not relax your efforts or cease your work as long as an honorably discharged soldier who would be a desirable member of our order is outside our ranks. If you cannot secure his application see if there is not some comrade in the post who can. We can make this the banner year of the banner department. Let us do it; then every department officer and every post officer can always point with pride to the fact that he contributed to that grand result.

If your post has been doing its full share of the work I sincerely thank you for it. If not, let me urge you to go work now in earnest and resolve that this quarter shall show a good let me urge you to go work now in earnest and resolve that this quarter shall show a good

There are many dropped or sus-pended members who can easily be induced to regain their membership. Should the comrade be unable to pay the reinstatement fee, then help him by remitting all or part of it. Remember that work is being done along the whole line, and you will occupy an unenviable position if at the close of the year the post you have the honor to command is not up in its

Major General John F. Hartranft died at noon

Major General John F. Hartranft died at noon October II, 1899. He participated in the comradeship of our organization by membership in General S. E. Zook Post No. II, at Norristowa, Pa., and in 1875 was called from its ranks to the high station of Commander-in-thief.

The vacancy created by his death can never be filled. He was the foremost volunteer soldier of the Union from Pennsylvania. His was a life conspication for bravety and heroism in battle, and for pure, and honorable citizenship in time of peace. The grand soldier, honored statesman, true friend and loyal comrade, rests from the wearsome march, and sleeps undisturbed by clash of arms or din of battle.

His memory shall be embalmed in the hearts of manking, and his name engraved in imperishable letters upon the beart of the nation.

Post charters will be draped in mourning for 30 days from date of this order.

THE ladies interested in the fair of Post 157 will meet in the lower hall of the Fifth Avenue Bank building next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, sharp. REV. L. McGUIRE, better known to Grand Army men as "Chaplain McGuire," is now located at the Fifth Avenue M. E. Caurch, foot of Mages street. THE first reunion of colored veterans in the State of Maryland took place at Baltimore on last Thursday. It was that of the Seventh United States Colored Regiment.

THE National Tribune says that a strong feeling is manifested throughout the department in favor of Past Department Commander General E. S. Osborne for Governor. THE arrangements for the opening of the fair of Post 167, on November 11, are nearing completion, and the encouragement already re-ceived by the managers is very gratifying. A MAGNIFICENT life-size, full length portrait neral George G. Meade was presented to Encampment No. 1. Union Veteran Legion, by the artist, Mr. Printer, a few evenings ago. A POST of the Grand Army of the Republic was mustered at Winnipeg, Manitoba, on last Friday night, with Harper Wilson as Com-mander. This is the second post in Canada. In a pawnshop at St. Louis, Mo., there is a opper medal having engraved upon it: "J. Yameili, Camp E., L B. N. Y. V. For meritorious conduct at Fort Sumter, August 22, 1863.

It is said that in Company C. Fiftieth Pennsylvania Parimeters

EIGHTY of the cavalry riders who followed Custer during the war held their first reunion at Lansing, Mich., on last Wednesday. They are the survivors of the Michigan Cavairy. Prof. Thompson, of the Michigan University, read a history of the regiment and incidentally of the entire Custer brigade. Governor Luce delivered an address.

A MEETING of the National Advisory Comnittee on the State of the Legion, and also the National Committee on Pensions of the U. V. L., will be held in this city on the afternoon of November II, to make arrangements for the coming National Encampment, and to take such action in relation to pension bills as may be brought before the committee.

A LETTER has been written by Franklin M. Draw, Commander of the Department of Maine, to ex-Governor Cornell of New York, a mem-ber of the Grant Mounument Committee, ask-ing his approval of a plan to raise money for the monument by means of a memorial volume containing a history of the civil war, beside brief blographies of participants. THE reception room of Encampment No. 1

U. V. L., is filled every night by old soldiers. The library has all the best military works printed, beside a targe number of miscellaneous books. A number of fine pictures adorn the walls, and everything is made as pleasant as possible. This encampment new has 819 members in good standing on the rolls.

A COMPLIMENTARY testimonial will be given to Rev. Colonel John A. Danks, at Veteran Legion Hall, No. 77 Sixth avenue, on Wednes-day evening next. The Colonel will deliver his lecture on Gettysburg, and the Lewis Quartet will have charge of the musical arrangements. Of course the meeting is open to the public and a large assemblage of the Colonel's old friends is anticipated.

THE following named comrades were announced as the Executive Committee of the nounced as the Executive Committee of the National Council of Administration in general orders No. 3: William McCleiland, Pittsburg, Pa.; H. ORIGINAL

In general orders No. 3 Commander in Chief A Market House on the Allegheny River for Use of Both Cities.

DETAILS OF THE BIG SCHEME

House Building Goes Bravely On, and a Word About Moving Day.

PITTSBURG AND HER LITTLE CRITICS

Land is scarce and valuable in the business part of Pittsburg, and any suggestion, idea or plan to ease up the pressure and increase the business area is entitled to respectful consideration. From a multiplicity of devices there may eventually be evolved a project which will give the necessarv relief.

With this purpose in view, a former resident of Boston, but now a prominent manufacturer of this city, whose name is at the command of anyone who may become interested in the matter, in coversation with THE DISPATCH representative yesterday, advanced an idea, at once original and novel; the adoption of which, in his opinion, would bring into use a large amount of surface space in the heart of the city, which is greatly needed for business purposes. The idea is this: business purposes. The idea is this:

That when the contemplated bridge over the Allegheny river, at Fifth street, shall be built, the space between it and the Sixth street bridge be floored and roofed over so as to form a building of sufficient size and strength for a market house for the two cities, and so constructed as to afford a convenient passageway for teams and pedestrians from one side of the river to the other. In other words, the proposition is to make a continuous bridge from Fifth to Sixth street, roofed and floored, with doors, windows, stalls and other conveniences for the purposes of a general market, and with roadways at the sides and in the center to allow roadways at the sides and in the center to allow of free and easy ingress and egress.

He is perfectly satisfied as to the feasibility of the scheme. As to the cost, he thinks it could be easily defrayed by the proceeds of the sale of the property now used for market house purposes in Pittsburg and Allegheny; or, if the cities should prefer to hold this property for other municipal uses, bonds could be issued to cover the expense, which would not be great. Rents from stalls and other market privileges would be large enough to soon cancel the debt. The gentleman, who has given considerable thought to the matter, maintains that it is en-tirely practicable, in proof of which he cities a similar structure over the river Seine at Paris, one over the Danube at Buda-Pesth, and the old London bridge over the Thames, which was covered with substantial houses, used both for residence and business purposes.

Should the space between the Sixth and Seventh street bridges be deemed preferable for any reason—centrality of location, for instance—the improvement could be made there.

The lateness of the season makes but little impression upon the building industry. It was active last week. Fifty-one permits were taken out. The estimated cost of the improvements is $112,567. Very few large houses figure in the list, the large majority being of medium size, which is just what Pittsburg needs—houses to shelter the bone and sinew, the wealth-creators of the community.

So far this year, the permits issued from the Building Inspector's office, numbers 2,225. To this must be added a large number of houses in various stages of completion, for which per-mits have not been applied for. These number probably 200, making a total for the expired portion of the year of nearly 2,500, the cost of which will exceed $5,250,000. This is doing well. which will exceed Pittsburg is growing.

While nearly everybody is friendly to Pittsburg for what she has done as a leader of thought and action in all the great movements of the age, once in a while a Rip Van Winkle from some comatose community, Philadelphia or Baltimore generally, pays us a visit to gather inspiration from the rush and push so charac-teristic of our people, stays a few days, and falls to sleep again. Before doing which, how-ever, he summons up sufficient energy to say that Pittsburg doesn't amount to much, is overrated, that natural gas is playing out, that the streets are dirty, the buildings scrawny, and more of the same sort of stuff.

Pittsburg can stand any amount of this kind of criticism. No one has ever claimed that she is a pleasure resort, or a retreat for loafers. The city was built for business, and the original purpose of its founders has been literally car-ried out. She is to-day, as she has always been, a hive of industry, devoted to the development of the resources of nature and all that is best in man. The streets are for business, and they serve this purpose admirably. The same kind of traffic passing over the streets of Philadel-phia or Baltimore would ruin them in a month. The buildings are for use, not show. Sti many of them are imposing in size and dis tinguished for architectural beauty. As for natural gas, it hasn't played out. There is plenty of it for manufacturing and domestic purposes, and will be for years to come. Pittsburg possesses other things to make her great and prosperous, which should be taken into the account by her critics—for instance, brains, energy and money. With her marvelous growth in population and business, and with a manifest destiny to still more completely overshadow all rivals, Pittsburg can well afford to let her critics rave. Of all the cities in America which will be visited by the South and Central Americans nore will so deeply impress them as Pittsburg, and of none will they carry to their homes such pleasing and lasting reco

The principal features of local business last reek were continued activity in the iron trade, and a liberal movement of all the staple prodncts. There were no material changes in values, but they were well maintained. There was a surplus of money, although many other points east and west complained of a scarcity. Rates were steady at 5@6 on call, and 6@7 on time.

Real estate was active.

In the speculative branch the features were a bad break in Philadelphia Gas Company stock, and a sharp advance in petroleum. The influences affecting the Philadelphia stock were those which have been used by the bears for some time—insufficient supply indicating a per-manent shortage, and loss of business resulting in decreased earnings. The bears on the market were the only ones able to find sufficient reasons for these opinions. The stock closed steady at a fraction above the lowest point of the decline.

The advance in petroleum was due entirely to statistical conditions, which show a rapid growth in consumption and a steady depletion n stocks. In view of this fact, and of the ad mitted scarcity of the product, and with no prospect of making good the deficiency from territory where operations are now in progress, the opinion widely obtains that the present ad-vance will not be checked until the price reaches $1 25 or $1 50. Statistics favor the latter

Those especially interested in procuring a change of moving day from April 1 to May 1, to avoid the inclement weather which generally prevails at the former date, should begin to stir the selves, as time is passing and the fate-ful period is drawing near. So far landlords have been very slow about signing the agreement which has been drawn up by Secretary Gloninger, of the real estate agents' organization. This indifference is somewhat surprising, since it is known that nearly all of them favor the change.

It would be cause for regret if the movement were to fall through after reaching a stage which demands but little additional effort to carry it to completion. Tenants, who are princarry it to completion. Tenants, who are prin-cipally interested in the change, should take up the subject and insist upon landlords signing the agreement. The change is necessary and should be made.

THE PANIC OVER.

Philadelphia Gas Company Stock Improve ing-The Tractions Totally Ignored. So far as business was concerned yesterday's stock market was a failure, the only sale being 10 shares of Philadelphia Gas, but what it lacked in activity it gained in strength, nearly the entire active list being firm and higher, the only notable exception being Switch and Signal, for which 18 was the best bid. Philadelphia Gas was decidedly stronger and very sparingly offered. It sold in a small way at 30%, at which figure several hundred shares could have been marketed, but holders, having in some measure recovered from their scare, concluded to hold on a little longer, as the tide had turned in their favor. It was the opinion of some that the object of the only seller of the buying advanced to 107%. The lowest and closing were the same as the opening.

Pittsburg was the principal buyer, sustaining the market. New York sold at the top and bought at the bottom, but the bulk of the selfing was good, both East and West.

Cash oil was neglected, there being no particular fear of a squeeze. Friday's clearances were 1,551,600 barrels. Clearances for the west were 4,538,000 barrels. The market closed without much expression either way, but steady. stock was to start a movement which would enable him to load up, being on the short side. Features of the Market. NEW YORE, October 26.—The stock market to-day, while comparatively active for a Saturday, was without general feature of interest, and except for one or two stocks shows but slight changes as the result of the day's trading. The activity was confined to spots, and while the general temper of the room was bullish the traders were sellers of the market and such advances as were made were afterward neutralized. St. Paul and Union Pacific were most active, but their fluctuations like those of all of the active stocks were fractional only, and the only features of the day were Michigan Central, which, after a long period of stagnation, suddenly sprang into activity and scored a marked advance, and Denver, Texas and Ft. Worth, which continued its remarkable upward movement.

The bullish feeling of yesterday lasted over till this morning, and first prices were generally from ½ to ½ per cent higher than last evening's figurea, though Oregon Transcontinental was an exception, being down ½, at 35½. Sugar was weak, and the further advances in the regular list were confined to small fractions, and the upward movement soon came to an end, after which prices sagged away slowly, though Michigan Central rose from 35½ to 31½. Denver, Texas and Fort Worth from 31½ to 35½, and Texas Pacific from 20½ to 31.

There were some other strong spots in the list, but their movements were small and unimportant, while sugar dropped about 1½ per cent. The bank statement seemed to have no effect, and the market finally closed quiet and rather heavy at about the lowest prices in most stocks. Michigan Central is up ½ and Denver, Texas and Fort Worth 1½, but the other changes are all for insignificant amounts.

Railroad bonds were comparatively active, and the sales for the two hours reached $85,000, out of which the Fort Worth and Denver firsts contributed £112,000, and the Texas Pacific seconds $111,600. The general tone of the dealings was no more than firm, though several issues showed marked strength. Sales of bonds for the week, $6,857,000, against $4,557,000 last week.

MR. J. B. MYERS INTERVIEWED.

The popular saying that "time will obliterate all things" is probably one of the most truthful of all the old proverbs. The softening influence of Father Time's steady hand serves to soothe us in hours of frial, as well as giving us relief in many other different ways. Such proved to be the case in the history of the life of Mr. John B. Myers, of No. 25 Union avenue, Allegheny, whose story as given the writer is of more than usual interest. Mr. Myers is employed at the well-known shoe house of G. D. Simons, No. 78 Ohio street, Allegheny, one of the busiest thoroughfares in that city. He is the son of Mr. John F. Myers, a prominent real estate dealer, well-known throughout real estate dealer, well-known the the community.
